

Website Information Disclaimer

Last Updated: July 13, 2026

Information on <https://armoldandwater.com/> is intended for general educational and informational purposes. It does not constitute a property inspection, moisture assessment, mold assessment, environmental evaluation, remediation protocol, engineering opinion, medical recommendation, insurance opinion, legal advice, or project-specific professional advice.

Every property and loss is different. The source, category, duration, extent, and consequences of water, mold, moisture, sewage, fire, smoke, or other damage cannot be determined solely from general Website information, photographs, telephone conversations, or electronic messages.

Do not enter an area that may contain electrical hazards, structural instability, sewage, chemical contamination, fire hazards, active flooding, or other dangerous conditions. For an immediate threat to life or safety, call 911 or the appropriate emergency authority.

Website references to certifications, standards, procedures, equipment, technology, or industry practices describe general qualifications or approaches. They do not mean that every procedure is necessary or appropriate for every property.

Project scope, obligations, pricing, exclusions, and responsibilities are established only in the applicable written documents between Arkansas Mold and Water and the customer.

Testimonials, reviews, photographs, case studies, and descriptions of previous projects represent individual circumstances. They do not guarantee that another customer or property will receive the same result.

Website information may be updated, corrected, replaced, or removed without notice.